

Name: _____

Chapter 15 Review

Question	Answer
What do we call the study of human populations and how they change?
the average age that a person in a given population can expect to live to.
a graph that shows the ages and sexes in a population, with the youngest ages at the bottom.
What major issue in Europe have we studied in this chapter?
What are the responses to Europe's declining population?
A country with an aging population is most likely to face rapidly rising costs for?
Why should European workers be concerned about the aging population?
More babies are being born each year than the number of people who die.

Name: _____

More people are dying each year than are being born.
Births and deaths are nearly equal in that country
Be able to answer questions about population pyramids
What age/gender has the greatest % of the population? What age/gender has the smallest % of the population?
What % of females are 45-49? What % of males are 45-49?
What can you infer about the population of females vs men in ages 0-4? What about when they turn 70?
What can you infer about the population growth in 2030?

Name: _____