

1. Governments create national parks to	all of the above
2. A map that illustrates an area's human and physical features with symbols and contoured lines is called	a topographic map.
3. Which of the following is true of Yellowstone National Park?	It was the world's first national park.
4. Which of the following is true of John Muir?	He is the most well-known American conservationist.
5. What is one unique attribute of Yellowstone National Park?	It has two-thirds of the world's geysers.
6. The Grand Canyon is an example of a national park, which is a large area of land that	the government has set aside in order to preserve its natural state.
7. The Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park straddles the	Continental Divide.
8. Which of the following is true of Waterton-Glacier International Peace Park?	all of the above
9. What is unique about the sand dunes in Prince Edward National Peace Park?	They slowly migrate because the wind moves them.
10. The Canadian government created Prince Edward Island National Peace Park in 1937 to	protect and preserve the area's fragile environment.
11. The first people to live in the Yosemite, thousands of years before Europeans lived there, were the	Miwok Indians.
12. Why did John Muir and other conservationists appeal to Congress about protecting the area of the Yosemite?	They wanted to end the destruction that the gold miners and tourists had caused.
13. Everglades National Park is the only preserve with a _____ climate in North America.	humid subtropical

Wapusk National Park was created to protect the	14.	world's largest known polar bear denning area.
What is one significant aspect of Denali National Park?	15.	It homes the highest mountain in North America.
Inside Everglades National Park are many different	16.	environments, such as ponds and pineland forests.
Which of the following is a threat to national parks?	17.	all of the above
What is a major problem that makes it difficult for countries to create national parks?	18.	The creation of national parks can often be too expensive.
Why do national parks that are rich in natural resources face many threats?	19.	People try to pressure the government into permitting letting them use the resources.
One challenge countries face when setting aside land for national parks is	20.	finding the right balance between preserving and using land.
